AMERICA IN ACTION

MARINE CHIEF

Parachute troops of the United States marine corps today constitute one of the world's most feared attack forces.

In daily drills over vast East and West coast training centers, thousands of these specially picked men are parachuting from large transport planes. Also dropped by parachute are the latest types of short-range, rapid-fire guns of many calibers. Once on the ground the marine troops form into combat units according to pre-arranged plans, swiftly assemble their weapons, and go into action against designated objectives.

Actual battle conditions are simulated with the utmost fidelity during these maneuvers. No time is wasted. For tomorrow may be the day these men set forth to smash at the enemy.

Commanding officers for the parachute troop units are chosen on the basis of their fighting fitness and outstanding records as aviators and parachute experts. These officers then select the men who will serve under them. The honor of becoming a parachute trooper is given only to those men who are already fully trained as marines and who have, in addition, the highest qualities of intelligence, physical endurance, and reliability for personal combat.

And yet, the para-marines, as these troops are called in the corps, are not supermen. Average height and weight are necessary because the troops must fall at the same rate of speed. A heavy man would fall more quickly than the others and a light trooper would be blown too far away to be able to join his comrades on the ground.

Briefly, a marine parachute troop must be between 21 and 32 years old, weighing between 135 and 190 pounds. His heart must be stout, his bones and joints unusually strong, his eyes keen and his sense of equilibrium perfect. There is 500 month awaiting the man who can qualify—that is $50 in addition to his basic pay.

The present highly developed system of training parachute troops was instituted by the marine corps in 1930, after several years of intensive experimentation. Here, in brief, is how it works.

During the first part of the six weeks' course, the men are taught to pack their own chutes. They study landing methods. Daily conditioning exercises strengthen their leg, back, and abdominal muscles to withstand the shock of landing.

Actual manipulation of the parachute is practiced in 250-foot jumps from huge steel towers. The para-marines are then taken aloft in planes and descend from an altitude of 1,000 feet. At this training progress, the transport carriers fly at lower and lower altitudes, until the troops are bailing out only 300 feet above the ground.

...MESSAGE TO 4-H CLUB MEMBERS FROM SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE:

"I want to congratulate you—one million five hundred thousand 4-H Club members—on your contributions during 1942 to the farm and home front and to the nation's war effort. In a time of stress, you have helped substantially in enlarging the nation's food and fiber supply, and in storing and preserving it. You have gathered thousands of tons of scrap metal, rubber, paper, aluminum and turned them over to the nation. You have aided in rural fire control programs and helped to spread throughout rural areas the national nutritional program for the use of right foods and development of better health. Moreover, your work has helped make up for the loss of those who have left the farms for the Army and Navy, or for war industries in cities.

All these contributions lead us to expect still larger things from you in 1943, not only in production of food and fiber, but especially in helping to replace the manpower on the farms. More than ever before, the nation needs the help of every one of you. You can do your part by producing and preserving food; taking part in salvage campaigns; helping on the farm and spending at home; studying the meaning and significance of democracy; and purchasing war stamps and bonds. In all this work we want you to know that you are a definite part of your Government's organization for helping to win the war and establishing a lasting peace.

—Claude R. Wickard.
